SILHOUETTE — The stark branches of a dead pine form a silhouette against the crashing waves of the Pacific on the rocky shores near Point Lobos. This much-photographed tree, much-photographed rocks, and much-photographed ocean nevertheless present an ever-changing subject for the photographer.

Editorial—
Tragedy—Museum Closes

Have you visited the Carmel Museum of Art since it opened back in 1967 in the former Wells Fargo Bank building on Dolores street near 7th?

Have you viewed exhibitions of paintings by noted artists who lived and worked in this part of California during the last quarter of the 19th century?

Or have you, perhaps attended a chamber music concert there, and wondered just how the Museum was operated — free to the public as it has been — and just how its costs were met?

This week the doors of the Museum were closed, on a temporary basis, while Museum Director Kent Seavey seeks the financial support which will be needed to open the doors to the public again, hopefully in a month's time.

What amount of support: Some $50,000 a year. Seavey will seek patrons who could provide that level of support.

Ten patrons, he points out, could sustain the Museum's operations for a period of five years if each one would pledge the amount of $25,000 to be disbursed to the Museum at the rate of $5,000 a year.

One patron, Seavey adds, has made just such a pledge, and if nine others were to become patrons on the same basis, the fiscal problem of the Museum could be solved.

Pledges could, of course, be both smaller and larger than the figure which Seavey mentioned. In either case the number of patrons needed to re-open the doors of the Carmel Museum, and to continue its work, would simply become larger or smaller. (If you should wish to reach Seavey, his phone number is 375-8739, while Museum Board president Robert E. Ross can be reached either at 624-1566 or 624-21230

As evidence of interest elsewhere in the historical research already done by the Carmel Museum, Seavey mentions that recordings of such research are now being transcribed in Berkeley to become a part of the state-wide historical archives maintained at the University of California.

How has the Carmel Museum been sustained in its first years, and why can it not continue to be sustained as it has already been?

The initial work to start the Carmel Museum and the means to support it, were provided mainly by Mr. and Mrs. Anthony R. White who maintain a home in Carmel, and who felt that the Museum was needed here and could become an important cultural asset to the area. They did feel, however, tthat the burden of support for the new local institution should be shared by public spirited individuals who would come to feel that the Museum would merit the fiscal support it would necessarily require at least in its early years. So far, such patrons have not appeared, and the Museum's Board of Directors has concluded that added patrons must be found quickly if the Museum is to resume operation.

If you feel that the resumption of the activities of the Carmel Museum of Art is important — as the Pine Cone does — make your views known to Director Kent Seavey or to Museum Board President Robert Ross, and you should do it right away, for the Museum need is most urgent.

Symphony Will Open Season Here Tuesday

Pianist Janet Goodman will be guest soloist when the Monterey County Symphony opens its annual Carmel series next Tuesday evening in Sunset Auditorium.

The Symphony will give its first performance of the 19-70 season Sunday night at 8 p.m. in the gymnasium-auditorium of Monterey Peninsula College. The same program will be repeated Monday night in Salinas before coming to Carmel on Tuesday.

The concert at Sunset Auditorium, which has been sold out to season ticket buyers, will begin at 8:30 p.m.

For her appearance on the Peninsula, Miss Goodman has selected Mozart's Piano Concerto No. 22 in E flat major, K. 482.

The orchestra, under the direction of internationally honored Haymo Taeuber, will perform the overture to News from the Day by Paul Hindemith, the Rosenkavalier Suite by Richard Strauss, Afternoon of a Faun by Claude Debussy and Sorcerer's Apprentice by Paul Dukas.

Although Tuesday night's concert is sold out, Carmel residents may still purchase single or series tickets for the Sunday evening concerts at M.P.C. The M.P.C. auditorium, which can seat 2,000 people, is noted for its excellent accoustics. Ample free parking is available.

Community Theater Rewards Actors, Directors, Crews

"The Lion In Winter" walked off with the lion's share (you'll pardon, I'm sure, the pun) of the awards at the Tuesday night ceremony at the La Playa Hotel.

Following the format of the Hollywood Academy Award presentations of its "Oscars," Complete with "May I have the evelope, please?" suspense, the Community Theater of the Monterey Peninsula, Inc., rewarded its outstanding performers, performances, direction and volunteer help.

Richard Bragg, president of the theater group, shared master of ceremonies duties with Robert Heater and between them, the awards were presented amusingly, with spontaneity and with graciousness, making for a thoroughly enjoyable evening.

Certificates of appreciation went to Ruth Jordan Allen for her professional services; Ruth Fry for service to the Circle Theater, and to Fritz Wurzmann for service to the cooperation.

The President's Award for the Best Production of the Season went to ' The Lion In Winter," which was directed by Michael Keller and starred Roy Baxter as King Henry and Gertrude Chappel as Eleanor of Aquataine.

Best Performance of the Season by an Actor and Actress went to Baxter and Mrs. Chappel for "Lion in Winter," and Best Direction to Mike Keller for "Lion."

The Frohman Award, a special recognition for outstanding contribution to the Circle Theater went to Sally Reichard, who received a standing ovation when she went to the stage to accept the plaque.

Other category winners included the most promising newcomer: Shawn Guild; outstanding display of versatility: Milton Hayes; outstanding performance by a backstage crew: "Lion in Winter."

Next week the Pine Cone will carry pictures and full details of the ceremonies.

In the meantime, we feel it behooves the Community Theater of the Monterey Peninsula, Inc., to devise some sort of appelation for its awards. It makes it easier to report the event if we can refer to the statuette, which is made up of the mask of comedy and tragedy in gold mounted on a mahagony base, as a "Golden Bow, "Junipero" or some other appropriate name, other of course, than "Oscar." crb

Explorerama Series Opens At Sunset With 'Ireland'

Explorerama, the popular travel-adventure film series, will open its 1969-1970 season at 8:15 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 22, at the Sunset Auditorium.

Famous author, explorer and film producer Nicol Smith will appear in person to narrate his newest film "IRELAND." The color film is 2 hours in length and is a leisurely journey which travels the length and breadth of the Emerald Isle.

The film is full of human interest vignettes of the Irish people. Visual highlights include the cities of Dublin, Londonderry, Belfast and Cork. Sybil Connolly, Ireland's leading couturier, is featured with her latest collection and a fascinating sequence is included on the making of Waterford glass.

Other highlights include the Giant's Causeway, Cashel Rock, the Haunted Tomb of Catherine (Countess of Desmond), Sir Walter Raleigh's home, Connemara Ponies and the National Stud Show at Kildare.

Nicol Smith, the film's producer and in-person narrator, is a native of Northern California and is one of the world's foremost travel-adventure film producers. He is the author of five books including the best selling "Golden Doorway to Tibet." During the second World War Lt. Col. Smith was a secret agent in the OSS in both Thailand and Vichy, France.

Other films of the new series are "Wide, Wide Switzerland" with Chris Borden narrating (Friday, Nov. 14); "Doing It Danish" with Arthur Wilson (Friday, Nov. 28); "Holiday in Holland" with Willis Butler (Friday, Jan. 16); "Portraits of the Orient," a film featuring Hong Kong, Korea, and Taiwan will be narrated by Curtis Nagel (Friday, Feb. 13); "Venice and the Italian Lakes" with Thayer Soule (Friday, Mar. 6); "Discovering New Zealand" with Kenneth Richter (Thursday, Apr. 2); and "Mexico South Into Guatemala" with National Geographic photographer Philip Walker (Friday, May 1).

Series tickets are now available at Abinante Music Store in Monterey (phone 372-5893), and Central Box Office in Carmel (phone 624-6739). (For any additional data call George Lourbis at (415) 771-4733).

Japanese Group Presents Check To Hospital

The Japanese American Citizens League of the Monterey Peninsula has presented a donation to the building fund of Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula.

Presenting the $450 check in response to the "continued giving program" of the hospital was Dr. Takashi Hattori, president of JAC on the Peninsula. The gift was accepted by Jay Hudson, assistant administrator of the hospital.

The hospital is now undergoing the second phase of a 25-year master plan for growth to a 300 patient bed nonprofit general hospital.

The present 100-bed facility designed by Edward Durell Stone opened six years ago. It cost $3½ million, two thirds of which came from voluntary community giving.

Now under construction is a 74 bed facility costing $1.6 million to meet inpatient care needs until 1975. At the same time, service departments are being expanded to meet the requirement of the full 300-patient bed hospital which will be necessary by 1985. Cost of expanding these departments is $2.3 million.

Gifts from Peninsula residents for the second phase of the expansion program have reached $1,944,000 which has been mated by appropriations from the state and federal government.

Trustees of the hospital have adopted a program of urging continued giving for new services and facilities that will be needed upon completion of present construction. The addition is expected to be completed late next year.

Andretti to Push For Win At Laguna Seca Tomorrow

Colorful Mario Andretti, the Indianapolis 500 Champ, is not a man accustomed to sinishing second – even to Canadian-American Challenge Cup leaders Bruce McLaren and Denis Hulme.

When action in the Monterey-Castrol Grand Prix weekend begins Friday at Laguna Seca Raceway, Andretti will be pushing from the start – that's his style.

In his last Can-Am start at Road America, Andretti's Holman-Moody prepared McLaren Ford was turning in times equal to those of Team McLaren. "Then we started having problems," Mario said. "But I think we proved the car is competative, all it needs is work."

With his third U.S. Auto Club national title already in the bag, Andretti and his 680 hp Ford Can-Am entry are set for a concetrated effort to end Team McLaren domination in the million-dollar Can-Am series.

In preparation for this weekend's racing date in Monterey, Ford has leased the 1.9 mile Laguna Seca asphalt for two days of private, non-spectator testing. If all the car needs is work, Andretti and his crew will have plenty of time to ready the entry for Sunday's $80,000 Monterey-Castrol Grand Prix.

"We are worried about Mario", McLaren admits. "It was his car, not the engine, that broke down."

Tickets for the three-day racing weekend are available at Macy's. Children under 12 are free.

ARC to Present Miss Turner

On Monday, Oct. 13 the Carmel-by-the-Sea Chapter of the American Red Cross will put on a special program for all volunteers and their guests at the chapter house starting at 2:30 p.m.

The featured speaker will be Miss Thomasina M. Turner, a college student who went to Honduras as a Red Cross representative in the "Friendship Latin America" program this past summer.

Miss Turner, sent as a First Aid Instructor, was called upon to practice her First Aid rather than teach when hostilities erupted between Honduras and El Salvadore. Her classroom became a dressing station as victims of bombs which fell nearby were brought in for care. Evacuated a few days afterward, she spent the remainder of her time teaching in Costa Rica.

In addition to the guests of the volunteers any other persons in the community who wish to attend may call the chapter for an invitation. There is no charge for the program or the refreshments which will follow.

Report From RLS

George Wing

Paintings by the accomplished Mr. Richard Pearsall are currently on exhibit at the Crocker-Citizens Bank in Pebble Beach. Mr. Pearsall, who is the RLS Artist-in-Residence, has done extensive studying on the Continent. In Paris he studied at the Achademie Julien and the Achademie Arajo; in London at the Slade School, the Ryam Shaw School and the L.C.C. School of Arts and Crafts. He has also exhibited widely in the British Isles at the Royal Academy, New English Academy, the Royal Scottish Academy, at the Walker Art Gallery, Liverpool and various other provincial galleries. In the Western United States, Mr. Pearsall has revealed his works with the Society of Western Artists in the De Young Museum, San Francisco. Mr. Pearsalls' current assemblage of works consists of eight oils ranging in subjectivity from a religious procession in Spain to the fields about Burgundy, France, to our own Monterey area. The Exhibit will be open for viewing through the month of October.

The play is "A Thousand Clowns" which shall be presented this upcoming Nov. 7th and 8th here at RLS. Written by the gifted Herb Gardner, "A Thousand Clowns" was selected the years first theatrical extravaganza. Mrs. Rosemary Garrison, Director, has masterminded many RLS box office busters in the past of which – "The Valient", "The Rainmaker," "The Zoo Story," "The Marriage Proposal," "The Mouse Trap," "The Public Eye" – are only to name a few. The public is cordially insisted (free of admission) to attend this light-hearted evening of renouned dramatics by Bruce Burrel, Henry Saunders, Chris Baumgart, Anne Matthews, Jim Doyle and John Sharon.

So, make a date to run and see "A Thousand Clowns," 8:30 p.m., Nov. 7th and 8th.

On Sat. the 27th RLS overwhelmed feeble Athenian resistance in Soccer.

How to use Municipal Bond "Paper Losses" for tax saving

Have you held municipal bonds for six months or longer? The quality and safety aspects of the bonds have not changed, but more than likely the market price is lower now than when you bought them. Today's prices are simply in line with what's been happening in the economy: Strong inflationary pressures. Tight money. High interest rates.

However, you can convert these lower prices, i.e., "paper losses," into meaningful income tax savings and, at the same time, preserve the quality of your municipal bond holdings. You do this by swapping one municipal bond for another and thereby registering a capital loss.

These capital losses can be used to offset capital gains which you have taken – or plan to take – this tax year. Or they can be used to establish a capital loss which, under certain circumstances, can be applied against ordinary income.

A detailed explanation is given in a special report issued by our Municipal Bond Department. Entitled, "Tax Swapping: How to Exchange 'Paper Losses' for Tax Savings."

THE WEDDING — Of the former Frances Alison Farr, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Lee Edward Farr of Carmel Point and Berkeley, to Michael Halam Torrey of San Francisco, took place at All Saints' Episcopal Church on September 27. Following the afternoon wedding performed by Father Arthur Cunningham, a reception was held at the Carmel Point home of the bride's parents. Dr. Farr is Chief, Emergency Health Services, California State Department of Health, Berkeley.

Wedding Bells

Jean McEwen Weds Rodd May

A reception at the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club followed the wedding in September at Erdman Memorial Chapel at Robert Louis Stevenson School of Jean Michelle McEwen of Carmel and Rodd James May of Carmel Valley.

Jean was given in marriage by her father, Charles W. McEwen, at the double ring ceremony at two o'clock for which Rev. Wilson officiated.

The bride was dressed in a floor length gown of peau de soie with bodice and ring point sleeves of Chantilly lace. Her chapel length train was fan shaped and her fingertip illusion veil was held in a bow. She carried white roses and ivy.

Jean's matron of honor was Mrs. Herman Calad of Fresno. Miss Danny Duygou of Carmel and the Misses Sherrie and Sue May, the groom's sisters, were her bridesmaids and Miss Holly McCullough was in charge of the guest book. They were dressed in floor length gowns of aqua saki cloth.

Following the reception, the couple left for a two week honeymoon in Alaska at Knutson Bay, Lake Iliamna after which they will live in Menlo Park.

Rodd, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. May of Carmel Valley, has been working for the U.S. Geological Survey in Alaska this summer.

Both Jean and Rodd are Carmel High School and San Jose State College graduates where Jean received a degree in Art History in January. Since then she has been working at Wells Fargo Bank in Palo Alto where her husband will start graduate work in geology at Stanford in October.

Linen Shower For Joanne

A tea and linen shower at the Hatton Fields home of Mrs. Henry Newman was given recently to honor the engagement of Joanne Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Thompson of Carmel, and Michael Lear LePage of Mountain View.

A persimmon and white color scheme was carried out in the carnation and chrysanthemum centerpiece of the table at which Joanne's grandmother, Mrs. Donald Boynton Walker, poured. Her great-aunt, Mrs. Ernest (Carol) Schweninger of Carmel, served punch to go with a festively decorated cake.

Joanne, a 1966 graduate of Carmel High School, attended Santa Barbara City College where she met her fiance who is completing his senior year at UC Santa Barbara. She is a graduate of Stevens Fashion and Merchandising College in Oakland. Joanne has three sisters, Barbara, Mary Jane and Jennifer.

Michael is the son of Mrs. Hubert Hendry of Mountain View and the late Russell Jackson Lear.

The young couple plan to be married next month in Santa Barbara.

Salli Lin Holbrook Married

Salli Lin Holbrook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth H. Holbrook of Carmel and Hassell Wayne Painter were married early last month at Fort Monmouth, New Jersey where the groom is stationed with the Army.

Salli Lin attended Carmel schools and graduated from Carmel High School and Monterey Peninsula College. She was employed as a library technician at Letterman Hospital in San Francisco.

She is the sister of Mark, Jeffrey and Ellen Holbrook, all of Carmel.

The groom is the son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Hassell H. Painter of Marsh Air Force Base at Riverside, where he attended City College.

The couple will return to California after he completes his military obligation.

To Wed In December

A dinner party for family members at the Monterey Peninsula Country Club was the occasion at which Dr. and Mrs. William N. Harness of Carmel announced the engagement of their daughter, Jane Evelyn, to Joseph John Johnen III of Marina.

They are planning to be married in December.

Jane, who attended Santa Catalina School, is a 1968 graduate of Carmel High School. She has studied at the University of Hawaii, Monterey Peninsula College and is now at the University of Iowa.

She has a sister, Mrs. Brian (Julie) Dorman of San Francisco who was recently married, and a brother, William Wallace Harness of Carmel. Mrs. Russell E. Croft of Pacific Grove is her grandmother.

John, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph John Johnen of Maria, who went to school in New Jersey, is a 1968 graduate of MPC. He attended the University of California in Berkeley and is now enrolled at the University of Iowa.

California is the only State in the Nation that grows figs commercially.

Salli's maternal grandfather, Merrill W. Olson, recently moved to Dallas, Oregon from Carmel Valley.

Herricks Return To Carmel

Early Carmelites, Dr. and Mrs. Francis H. Herrick (the former Mariam White who taught at Sunset School) have returned to Carmel to re-occupy their home on El Camino at 9th.

It took them some time to get here from Oakland where they had been living.

Before returning they spent the summer enjoying the rural delights of Sussex, England, where they had a flat at Eastbourne.

Dr. Herrick served several years as executive secretary to the Western College Association following his retirement from the Mills College faculty.

Now they will do some gardening, enjoy their grandchildren and reenter the daily life of Carmel again.

Recovering From Airplane Accident

Mrs. Mary Elstob Holland, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. (Carolyn) Elstob, is at home from the hospital after the accident in which she lost her left arm in connection with a flying lesson from the Palo Alto Flying Club at Carmel Valley Airport.

Although her right hand was broken, she will regain the use of it. Her courage, said her mother, has been magnificent.

Mary started school at Sunset School when her parents came to Carmel from New York. After finishing sixth grade the family spent two years in England where she attended Stratford House School for Girls.

On their return, Mary and her sister Lucy (now the wife of Cmdr. Marshall Slayton of the NPGS) attended Santa Catalina School for Girls, but Mary returned to Carmel High School to graduate with her class. Later she earned a degree at UCLA.

Symphony Guild Tea

A large black candle, cleverly twisted into the shape of a treble clef, graced the sideboard as Mrs. William A. Burkett greeted over two hundred Symphony Guild members and friends at tea on Tuesday afternoon.

The candle was put there by Virginia Stanton whose husband Robert Stanton is president of the Monterey County Symphony Association this year.

Symphony conductor Haymo Taeuber was on hand to tell the ladies about the program he is putting on this weekend, at Monterey Peninsula College, for those who do not have season tickets for the concert at Sunset Theater on Tuesday evening.

Committee for the Pebble Beach gathering was headed by Miss Anne Marrow, Mrs. Edwin Bliss, and Mrs. Chester M. Stratton.

From London

Mrs. Fritz (Marjorie) Wurzmann is back from a summer in London where she accompanied their daughter Renee.

They went to the theatre frequently and heard some fine music.

Renee has found a job in a gift shop and will stay on in London for a time.

New England

Mrs. Hascal Stewart, Carmel musician and composer, is now in Raleigh, North Carolina visiting her sister Grace with whom she recently toured New England.

Duo Pianists a Delight At Sunset Re-opening

An evening of graceful charm and gentle humor led off the new musical season at Sunset Theater last week when the Monterey Peninsula Chamber Music Society presented duo-pianists Sylvia Jenkins and William Corbett Jones.

The evening was also the occasion for the inspection and celebration of the sorely needed new seats, upholstered in scarlet, and other refurbishments for which the Carmel Cultural Commission was responsible.

Mozart Variations, played with tenderness and precision, with the artists at one piano, opened the program and established the intimate atmosphere of the evening.

A further old fashioned living room was the way Miss Jenkins was dressed in a full skirted ivory gown with long sleeves and high neck, and the composed way she looked out at her audience and seemed to draw them to her side as she begun the Beethoven 32 Variations on an Original Theme.

These variations, played in a relaxed, contemplative way, further advanced the warm mood of the evening.

Following the lyric Moment Musicale by Schubert and his brilliant Impromptu Opus 90, No. 2, the couple again joined hands in some Slavonic Dances by Dvorak, rhythmic and humorous.

The Chopin Barcarolle and three Chopin Etudes, Opus 25, No. 5 and 1, and Opus 10, No. 12, played solo by Mr. Jones, opened the second half of the program.

Bizet's "Jeux d' Enfants", a groups of eleven short pieces descriptive of children's games, with both artists at the piano, ended the program.

These amusing, seldom heard little pieces, were delightfully humorous and pleasing to the audience which demanded two encores, the Brahms Hungarian Dance in F major and Schubert's March in C Major.

It was pleasant to be able to see the performers, in contrast with the Carmel Museum of Art where the Chamber Music Society's recitals were held last year. However, something of the intimate atmosphere of the small living room was lost by the size of Sunset Theater.

The next concert by the Parrenin String Quartet will be held completely back stage at Sunset with the audience grouped around them. Perhaps this will be the ideal situation. We shall see and hear.

Parents Face Drug Problem

Taxpayers are spending $70,000,000 a year to pay for the processing of marijuana arrests which will harm their kids far more than "pot", said Dr. William B. Wenner before a recent Parents Without Partners open meeting at Casa Estrada.

The law should be related to the seriousness of the drug which is far less harmful than toxic stimulants such as diet "speed" pills, glue , and others which are readily available, he said.

Parents should not "lose their cool" when their children turn to drugs experimentally, expecially when the parents smoke and use alcohol. Rather they should stand by to help when needed.

"Just listen to them," he said, "with the same respect and interest we give a passing stranger. Set reasonable rules that kids help formulate, and forget non-essentials like hair styles."

Dr. Wenner returned recently from a drug abuse seminar at UC Medical School in San Francisco.

Tim Miles of Salinas showed a film "Beyond LSD" Which delved into the parent-child relationships behind the abuse of drugs.

"Listen," he said, "don't preach. Try to become informed and get into group therapy to find out why your child is using drugs."

Miles was one of original volunteer committee members to organize the Drug Information and Youth Crisis Center. Both volunteers and money are needed to keep the center open 24 hours a day.

The film is available for service clubs and other groups.

GEOGRAPHY LESSON – Taught by new teacher at Woods School, Miss Carole Webster, rear has each child fashioning his own globe of the world by first blowing up a ballon and then covering it. Roxanne Walker, front, receives a pointer from Ann Winter. Behind them are Andy Faulkner and Lauren Booth.

Monterey Bay Pollution

Two large and influential women's organizations will have programs this month which deal with the pollution of Monterey Bay and what to do about it.

The American Association of University Women will hold a pot-luck luncheon meeting, Saturday, Oct. 18 at the Pacific Grove Community Center on Junipero, off Forest Avenue. Speaker will be Dr. John Phillips, director of Hopkins Marine Station.

The League of Women Voters will hold a panel on Pollution of Monterey Bay at their luncheon meeting on Thursday, Oct. 23, also to be held at PG Community Center, for which visitors are invited.

Panelists will include Al Hart, Superintendant, Monterey Sewage Plant, Walter Wong, Sanitarian, County Health Department, and Dr. Phillips.

For reservations, luncheon, and baby sitting, call Mrs. White, 624-4538 or League office, 372-8312.

Kappa Pledge

Pamela Mayall of Carmel was recently pledged Kappa Kappa Gamma at the University of Oregon.

Math For Tots Workshop

The Monterey County Office of Education will present a two session workshop on "Developing Mathematical Concepts with Young Children" on Oct. 13.

The meeting will feature presentations by National Defense Education Act consultant John Gessel of the San Diego County Office of Education. He will discuss how the teacher of young children can help pre-school kindergarten and primary grade students develop mathematical ideas through use of manipulative materials and first hand experience.

The first session will be held at Carmel River School, Carmel, at 4 p.m.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting Beverly van Benthuysen, Coordinator of Early Childhood Education, at the Monterey County Office of Education, 424-0655 or 373-2955.

Art Lecture Demonstration

Russell Woody, painter, author and lecturer, will present a lecture-demonstration, "Painting With Synthetic Media" at Carmel High School, Oct. 15, at 4 p.m.

His appearance – of interest to art teachers, art students, adult school art students and the general public – is being sponsored by the Monterey County Office of Education.

New Babies

Dr. and Mrs. H. William O'Neil of Carmel became parents of Heather Anne, born Sep. 13.

Robert Adam is the name given the son born Sep. 20 to Mr. and Mrs. David Crose of Pebble Beach.

Three Carmel Artists Exhibit

The Seaside Art Commission is pleased to present a one-man show by Wayne Dye during the month of October at the Seaside City Hall Gallery.

Dye is a native Californian and graduated from the Fox-Morgan Art Institute. He was a commercial artist in Oakland until 1954, when he moved to the Monterey Bay Area.

Here he studied under Abel G. Warshawsky and Pio Juneo and soon became known for his seascapes.

Dye is a member of the Carmel Art Association, the Society of Western Artists and the American Artists Professional League. He has had several one-man shows in Monterey, Santa Cruz, Los Gatos and San Leandro.

In the display cases are some interesting examples of the work of two local artists.

Lenore Woolams was becoming known for her sculpture when she was stricken by polio in 1939. It was six years before she was able to resume her work. At first she did ceramic busts of children. Later she returned to wood carving. On Easter Sunday in 1957 her two life-size honduras mahogany statues were dedicated at St. Sebastian's Church in Greenbrae. This display includes busts and figures done in wood, ceramic, marble, alabaster and lead.

Eleanore Welborn is an artist of many talents and has several "firsts" to her credit. She opened the first art studio on Cannery Row, where she manufactured the first ceramic souvenirs for Disneyland. Later, when she owned the Monterey Pottery in Carmel Valley, she originated the Monterey Jade glaze. Beautiful examples of her enamels and jewelry are on display, as well as a gold leaf painting and a few of her early ceramic souvenirs.

The public is cordially invited to visit this exhibit at the Seaside City Hall Gallery from 9 to 12 and 1 to 5 Monday through Friday.

OBITUARY

Jessie Harrison MacGregor, former president of the Carmel Art Association, died on Sep. 25. In 1942 she and her late husband, Daniel Douglas MacGregor came to Carmel where he died in 1950. They had previously lived in the Orient where she continued her study of art. Mrs. MacGregor was known for her floral studies in oil.

Her second major interest through the years was golf. She was captain of the Women's Golf Association of the Monterey Peninsula Country Club.

Mrs. MacGregor is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Crabbe of Glendale and a host of friends.

TRIO — This bronze sculpture entitled "Trio" is part of a show of some 20 pieces by sculptor Charles B. Johnson on exhibit at the Galerie De Tours, 6th and San Carlos, Carmel during the month of October. Johnson is represented in such outstanding collections as Spreckles, Newhouse, Zellerbach, Factor and Firestone.

SUMMER AT GRANDMA'S IN PEBBLE BEACH

The sun has been hidden for many a day
Starting on the last day of May.
The fog just keeps rolling, rolling on in.
Isn't that a very bad sin!
I thought summer was supposed to be hot,
At least that is what I have been taught.
Although the sun will really try,
It cannot break through that mass in the sky.

Gentlemen:

Above was written by our granddaughter, after many days of waiting to enjoy the beach.

Thought I would send on to you for your consideration, as she has expressed my sentiments also.

Sincerely,
Mrs. John N. Hunter

MPC Magazine Contributions

Monterey Peninsula College's annual student literary magazine, due for publication in December, is soliciting contributions from the local non-student "artist community," Editor Patrick Nolan has announced.

Nolan said poetry, prose, photography and art (pen-and-ink drawings) will all be considered for inclusion, as will "other forms of creative expression."

Contributions should be sent to Literary Magazine, care of Student Activities Office, Monterey Peninsula College, 980 Fremont, Monterey, and should be accompanied by stamped, self-addressed envelopes. Deadline is the first week of November.

Movie Review

Stranger in Town – This is one of the better "made in Italy" westerns. Tony Anthony is a bounty hunter who battles a brutish bandit gang over a shipment of gold stolen from a U.S. escort troop. At the Valley Cinema.

True Grit – John Wayne at his best in his kind of picture; Glen Campbell in a non-singing role, and Kim Darby as a spunky frontier teenager. Humor and suspence mingle effectively to a crackling climax. At the Village.

Peter Pan – James M. Barrie's immortal fantasy comes to the screen in true Disney style. This reissue of the full-length cartoon classic is welcomed as a breath of fresh, clean entertainment. At the Grove.

The Stranger Returns – Sequel to Stranger in Town, this also stars Tony Anthony, who uses a unique, four-barrelled, revolving shotgun to pick off, one by one, a gang of murderous cutthroats. At the Valley.

The Horse In the Gray Flannel Suit – A Walt Disney comedy about a gray horse, star of a Madison Avenue advertising campaign, who becomes a contestant in the Washington International Horse Show. Dean Jones stars at the Grove.

War and Peace – Tolstoi's epic novel of the Napoleonic invasion of Russia comes to vivid life in this spectacular Soviet film. Plays one week each of its two parts at Cinema 70, and cannot be held over.

Bullitt – A crackling cops and robbers thriller in which detective Steve McQueen is in charge of protecting a hoodlum slated to testify at a Senate hearing. Great suspense, and McQueen gets help from Robert Vaughn, Jacqueline Bissit and Simon Oakland. Filmed in San Francisco. At the State.

3 Into 2 Won't Go – Beautifully photographed, expertly acted melodrama about a husband, a wife and a girl friend. Add a difficult mother-in-law banished to a rest home, and you have a well-done production. At the Regency.

The Illustrated Man – Based on three stories by Ray Bradbury, Rod Steiger and Claire Bloom star in this picture about a drifter who is almost completely covered by tattoos, each representing an adventure in his life. At the Regency.

Midnight Cowboy-Jon Voight is a Texas drifter who winds up in New York, and Dustin Hoffman is a corrupt con man who serves as his guide. This is a highly recommended, extremely thoughtful comedy. At the Steinbeck on Cannery Row.

I Am Curious, (Yellow) – Here it is, the Swedish film that has raised such an uproar. Satire mixes with interesting explorations of Swedish culture with notoriously explicit sex scenes. Not worth the fuss that has been raised over its legitimacy. At the Hill.

Last Summer – An unusual motion picture indicting careless and indifferent parents for some of the unusual behavior of their children. Barbara Hershey, Richard Thomas and Bruce Davison are the kids who destroy two of their peers. At the Golden Bough.

Stage Review

"The Owl and the Pussycat" – At the Circle. F. Sherman believes sex should be strictly intellectual, Doris is convinced it's completely physical. They try, unsuccessfully, to find a middle road, which leaves them shouting and screaming at each other, except in bed, when all is hunky-dory. Swiftly paced comedy with only two actors and assorted sound effects and stage props. Great play for a small theater-in-the-round like the Circle. Roy Baxter's superb direction is responsible for much of the funny stuff. Call 624-2669 for reservations. Plays weekends through October. Curtain at 8:30 except Sunday, 7:30.

"Don't Drink the Water" – Political hi-jinks in an American Embassy somewhere behind the Iron Curtain. The Hollanders, just plain folk from New Jersey, are mistaken for spies and take refuge in the Embassy. Plot revolves around the hilarious efforts in behalf of their escape back to the States. Sam and Edie Karas are outstanding as the Hollanders, and they make this Woody Allen comedy a delight to behold. The play moves primarily through dialogue, and great dialogue at that. The Karas' play each line for all it's worth, milking every nuance of comedy from their parts. For reservations call 624-1661. Curtain at 8:30 except Sunday, one hour earlier.

'You Can't Take It With You' Opens At NPS Friday

by Patty Petrucci

The Naval Postgraduate School Little Theater is proud to announce the opening performance of their production, "You Can't Take It With You." Opening night is Oct. 10 with performances on Oct. 11, 17, and 18.

director is Karen Kilday, technical and set director is Red Layton, in charge of properties is Barbara Pender and in charge of make-up is Gayle Donegan.

The list of talented and versatile performers include: Mary Margaret Gallagher, Jo Ann Barringer, Jean Kelleher, Alan McMasters, J.C. Hale, John Peterson, Denny Wisely, Red Layton, Pem Thorell, Bob Jones, Bob Amos, Matt Kelleher, Maurine Trujillo, Frank Childs, Patricia Johnson, Richard Lipes, Serge Yenov, Dean Free, and Shirley Anne Kinnier.

PAY UP — Carmel resident Bob Jones, playing Mr. Henderson, tells Grandpa (Red Layton) that he must pay his income taxes while Essie (Jo Ann Barringer) practices ballet to a zylophone accompanyment by her husband, Ed (John Peterson). The scene takes place during the Naval Postgraduate School Production of the Moss Hart-George Kaufmann comedy "You Can't Take It With You" opening Oct. 10 at King Hall for a two-weekend run.

The curtain will rise at King Hall Auditorium for all four performances at 8:30 p.m.

Tickets are on sale now at Wells Book Store in Carmel or Abinante Music Store in Monterey. Ticket sales will also begin one hour before each performance at the Auditorium Box Office.

All gates will be open for the convenience of theatergoers.

Moss Hart's and George S. Kaufman's award winning comedy "You Can't Take It With You" is about the Sycamore family in New York City, the year is 1936. You will be delighted with the strange but very funny family who, for instance, have an arsenal of fireworks in their basement, raise snakes in their living room, and support a middle-aged ballerina.

Directing the play is Dick Vreeland who did such a great job in directing the Navy Postgraduate School Little Theater productions, "Oklahoma" and "The Man Who Came To Dinner."

Co-producers are J.C.

"You Can't Take It With You" will leave you in such a good spirit, you will be laughing for a long time after.

Students Honored

Three Carmel High students, Douglas F. Catey, Cathy McFann and David A. Nystrom, have received letters of commendation for their high performace on the 1969 National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

They are among 39,000 students in the United States who scored in the upper two percent of those expected to graduate in 1970.

They rank just below the 15,000 semifinalists announced earlier by the National Merit Scholarship Corp.

"First First Ladies' Favorites"

PARTY PLANS . . .

by Phyllis Jervey

Just a few days ago your Party Plans editor visited the home of Patrick Henry, one of the towering figures in the formative years of our country. He was soldier, statesman, lawyer, orater, leader of men. He was also the first governor of a sovereign state on this continent – Virginia.

"Scotchtown," one of the oldest of Virginia plantation houses, was deeded in 1717 on a 9,976 acre tract. Here Patrick Henry lived from 1771-1777. The manor has been restored and furnished with authentic Colonial treasures.

This is a landmark in our Nation's history located between Mt. Vernon and Monticello which forms a triangle easily travelled in a day's journey through Virginia's countryside.

Dolly Madison spent her girlhood days at Scotchtown before Patrick Henry's residence there. As this is the theme of today's Party Plans, we are giving you the favorite dishes of Viriginia-born first First Ladies. As an impeccable source, we quote from a magnificent book "The First Ladies Cook Book" published by The Parents' Magazine Press.

George Washington had been born and raised in the social world of the 18th century Virginia where hospitality was a fine art. Both George and Martha gave welcome to everyone.

At Mt. Vernon their lives and their home threatened to be swamped with the steady flow of guests. The General himself called Mount Vernon "a well resorted tavern." When he and Martha were forced into the role of the new nation's hosts, they accepted their duties with graciousness.

Martha Washington's favorite recipes are as follows:

Beefsteak and Kidney Pie

Four small veal or baby veal beef kidneys; 1½ lbs. round or rump steak, cut into 1-inch pieces; 1 cup claret or other dry red wine; 2 onions, 1 sliced, the other diced; 2 bay leaves; ½ cup each, chopped parsley and celery, including tender leafy tops; 1 cup sliced mushrooms; suet or bacon drippings; flour for dredging and thickening; 1 pint hot water; salt; 1 t. coarse black pepper; 1 t. marjoram; pastry of puff-paste, pie crust or biscuit dough to cover casserole.

Separate kidneys with sharp knife, discarding gristle and fat. Sprinkle with salt. Cover with wine, add bay leaves, sliced onion, pepper. Marinate 2 hours.

Pound the steak with flour, cut into pieces. Brown suet or heat drippings in iron skillet. Add diced onion and cook until clear; remove onion from skillet. Over medium heat, brown steak well. Drain kidneys; reserve marinade. Dredge kidneys with flour and brown, stir carefully. Add hot water, stir, add chopped celery and parsley with marjoram.

Mix all well, transfer to casserole; add marinade. Cover tightly and bake at 325 F. around an hour. Add browned mushrooms to casserole. Cover with puff-pastry crust. Return to 500 F. oven. Bake until brown. Serve at once. Six servings with mashed potatoes.

Chess Cakes

One cup butter; 1 cup sugar; 6 egg yolks, beaten; 1/3 cup dry white wine; 1 T. lemon juice and grated rind of 1 lemon; ¼ t. salt; pastry for 1 9-inch pie or 12 tarts, the latter made in muffin pans or flutted patty pans.

Cream butter and beat into it slowly ½ cup sugar, reserving the rest of the sugar. Beat egg yolks with salt until light and lemon colored, then slowly beat in remaining ½ cup sugar; whisk in lemon juice and grated rind. Combine with creamed mixture; stir in wine. Pour into pie shell or tart shells. Bake at 350 F. about 60 min. until set.

When Thomas Jefferson moved into the White House in 1801 he had been a widower for 19 years. His official hostess was Mrs. James Madison, whose husband was Secretary of State. Dolly Madison learned her social duties to advantage, as she was to become First Lady soon afterward.

The Madison administration was known for the easy grace and warmhearted Virginia hospitality that characterized this First Lady's animated dinner parties. It was Dolly who introduced ice cream to the White House with macaroons, various cakes, followed by fresh fruits and nuts. Candles were brought in before the ladies left the table; the gentlemen continued a half hour longer over a social glass.

Madison Cakes

Two white potatoes; 1 yeast cake crumbled over 1 T. granulated sugar and a slight shake of powdered ginger; 4 T. butter; 2 T. salt; 1 T. sugar; 2 eggs, beaten whole; 6 cups flour.

Boil peeled potatoes well in about 1 cup boiling water until tender. Strain and save the potato water (1 cup). Mash potatoes into bowl, adding butter, sugar and salt. When cooled to lukewarm, add potato water into which yeast had been dissolved and beat well. Sift in flour, beating continuously. Knead until smooth and spongy. Return to a well-buttered bowl. Cover with damp tea-towel and place away from draft. Let double in bulk for about 3 hours, depending on heat and humidity.

Turn out on floured board and roll 1-inch thick. Cut into rounds with a biscuit cutter. Place on buttered cookie sheets placed far apart. Let rise until light. Bake at 350 F. until golden. Brush tops lightly with butter.

PART V

Then the barbecue – all the chicken and suckling pig we could eat. Crisp, juicy, and as tender as it had looked on the spits outside – this was the finest food we had eaten on our trip thus far, and we ate and ate and drank and drank our fill. There was wine on the table, and as we feasted, waiters passed among us with large glass bottles with long spouts. Dexteriously they poured champagne into our mouths. We were serenaded by traditional Spanish guitarists and by the end of the meal we were all singing and swaying to their accompaniment.

After dinner the dancing began, I walked around the farmhouse before dancing in order to settle my meal and take a closer look at the surroundings. Goats, horses and the suckling pigs who would, no doubt, be Sunday's barbecue were housed nearby. The night was clear and the stars shone down upon orchards and farm house and glittered in the water of the courtyard fountain.

As I wondered about, I met a Swede who himself was a farmer. Although I spoke no Swedish and he no English, somehow we found out each other's names and occupations and went inside to dance.

There was an excellent band on the lower level of the house where we had eaten, and we danced there for a while and then went up to the balcony which overlooked the cobblestone courtyard of the type that we on the Peninsula can see at the Carmel Mission or the Spanish styled Santa Catalina School in Monterey.

Upstairs there was a livelier band and less people so we danced there for a while and then went downstairs.

The time had flown by and it was twelve o'clock p.m. time for the buses to depart. I hated to leave so soon because I had wanted to see more of the farm. Earlier when I had run into my Swedish escort, I had only seen the area surrounding the main hacienda.

These barbecues are held on Thursday and Sunday nights and we are considering taking another trip to take in once more the sights, smells, and succulent food of the Barbecue of Son Amar.

April 11

Shopping in Palma

Today I wrote post cards and lounged at the pool and then took a quick window shopping tour through the jewelry stores of Palma. These were not the quaint curio shops in shaded patios that we had found last week near the Cathedral, but a shopping area typical of any American city, with department stores, shoe shops, and the like.

We stumbled onto a street of shops displaying jewelry, gold and silver. Although I just window shopped, there were many articles that were hard to resist, such as figures of Don Quixote, Sancho Panza, and the windmill they encountered made entirely of bolts and screws and costing about $2.50 per figure.

We found on this trip that it is possible to bargain with the shop keepers in Mallorca. The Spanish shopkeeper will not refund money on articles they sell, but they are fair and patient with customers.

Graduate Nursing Program Now Offered By Army

Most high school and college students know the U.S. Army can give them financial assistance to complete their training to become registered nurses. The Army offers this program because of the continuing shortage of these professionally-trained men and women.

But there is still another financial assistance program which has gone begging for applicants even though it has a great deal to offer. It is called the Registered Nurse Student Program and gives the professional nurse who has graduated from a hospital or collegiate school of nursing the opportunity to go on to complete the requirements for a bachelor's or master's degree in the nursing field.

The young man or woman interested in the program must meet several basic requirements. First, be between 21 and 32 years of age and be a graduate of a school of nursing acceptable to the Department of the Army.

Next, have been accepted by or be studying full-time at a college or university accepted to the Army which offers a course in nursing leading to a bachelor's or master's degree. Students are allowed 24 months in which to complete the course. Other requirements are that women applicants be unmarried, all must be citizens, be physically qualified and possess high moral, scholastic and personal qualifications.

In return, the Army offers applicants commissions as second or first lieutenants, depending upon experience, free medical and dental care, shopping privileges at military exchanges and commissaries and 30 days paid vacation per year. Monthly pay and allowances while a student range from $520 to almost $600 per month.

Students are not required to wear uniforms or attend military meetings while in school.

The service obligation as a commissioned officer with the Army Nurse Corps after graduation is three years for students who received more than 12 months schooling and two years for those who studied less than 12 months.

More detailed information is available from the local U.S. Army recruiter Sgt. Jose Garcia whose office is located at 431 Webster Street in Monterey.

Repair Of Rock Slides Will Close Highway One Twice

An active rock slide and a bridge weakened by last winter's rains spell sad news for southern Monterey coast residents and tourists.

Highway One will be closed to through traffic on two occasions between early October and mid-December according to R. E. Alderman, District Maintenance Engineer for the Division of Highways.

Each closure will last from two to three weeks while regular maintenance forces augmented by emergency day labor correct two critical highway problems along the southerly Monterey coast.

Division engineers report that either or both conditions could precipitate a winter-long closure if early rains hit the area before repairs are effected.

The slide, located just south of Lime Kiln Creek, (about 37 miles north of San Simeon) has been sporadically active for years. The extremely heavy rains last winter have stimulated nearly constant movement to the point where maintenance crews have been hard-pressed to keep the road open during the height of the tourist season. Large-scale remedial work must be done before further rainfall provokes slides of possibly catastrophic proportions.

The other problem is about 12 miles further south at Mud Creek where a damaged bridge must be replaced before the up-coming rainy season.

Work at the two locations will be coordinated so that the road will be closed at only one location at a time. Although this will delay through traffic for a longer period, it is necessary in order to provide access to the area between the two locations.

Residents along the 12-mile intervening segment of Route 1 will be notified before closures are made. Signs warning motorists of the closures will be posted just northerly of San Carpojo Creek and just south of Big Sur.

CARMEL VALLEY VILLAGE NEWS

The newest addition to downtown Carmel Valley Village is the imposing new home of the Pat Wester Dance Studio. Pat has been a leading light in the vallet world since her early training in New York. Her talent was recognized early by the New York Metropolitan Opera Company where she taught for several years. She came to the west coast in "Turnabout." With her partner, Vonn Hamilton, also of Carmel Valley, they had a repetoire of early American dances from the "Cake Walk" to Agnes de Mille's "Rodeo". She opened her ballet school in Carmel Valley several years ago.

Since establishing her school she has had many pupils accepted by Sadlers Welles Royal Ballet Company. The latest of her publils to be accepted is only 11 years old and studied with Pat solely. All of us must take great pride in Pat.

She has the singular honor of having more pupils accepted by Sadlers Welles than any other school in America; a great honor and well deserved. If one has been fortunate enough to see the inspiration she is capable of imparting to her pupils, it becomes easy to understand why they put so much more into their terpsichorean efforts, and therefore how much more they drive from it. Good luck, Pat, in your new location. We wish you well and offer our congratulations on your remarkable progress.

Goings On

The Cannery Row Bid-Along party staged by the White Oaks Theatre Guild was a fun evening for all who arrived at the Outrigger to sip champagne, munch those yummy succulencies they serve, and participate in the bidding. Will Fay of Will's Fargo was not at his usual post behind the bar that night for sure. . .for he is keenly interested in the White Oaks Theatre and took the night off to be a part of the party. The Marzi's are back from their vacation, having enjoyed their Tahoe stay at the Shamrock, and especially their evening watching Sammy Davis going through his multitudinous paces.

The In and Outdoor Shop reports that Christmas has started with the arrival of the imported as well as domestic Card Albums together with the colorful collection of Marti Links cards, and boxed cards, all of which are on display now. The Carmel Valley Gallery next in line after the Great White Oaks, has a most beautiful painting by C.C. Beall. It is a tranquil New England Scene in the fall, with all the rolling hill softness of the eastern terraine, dotted with maples and muted foliage making for lovely color contrasts, as is to be seen this time of the year in that part of the country. The quaintness of the church spires, always so gleaming white, as one comes upon one little village after another, are very much in evidence in this scene, as are the salt boxes, and cottages associated with this area. Mr. Beall is represented also by a mixed media painting called "Oriental Oxen" which illustrates his master handling of not only subject matter but materials. He is very well known as a portraitist, having done many distinguished and historically important people as Lincoln, John Kennedy, etc., and was appointed the official national artist by our government to depict the signing of the Japanese Peace Treaty as well as the Raising of the Flag at Iwo Jima.

Dean and Josie had not been to the Cannery before in San Francisco, so that is where they spent one afternoon of their recent sojourn in the city . . . and loved every minute going through those myriad shops. Valley Lodge has a fascinating new winter tenant, Mrs. Cashman, up from the "Forest" to partake of our great sunny, warm, beauteous climate . . . would that more people in foggy or wet or cold climes could know that we are indeed a winter resort as well as a summer retreat. Smart gal, Mrs. Cashman, and if she likes us she will buy a house and stay all the time. Welcome, welcome. The Patio at the Plaza Linda is full of Stanley Woods paintings, being shown by Glen Mewhinney's Village Art Center for Edith Brattin, whose collection it is. It is a bright sunny morning and Virginia de Maria is out in it weeding and planting and enjoying her lovely garden at the Rippling River Resort. A day off for Virginia is apt to be as busy as a day on the job, but as she says, she loves every minute of it either on or off and she shows it and the place shows it. Look for the flurry of Fuschia she has just put on the dining room terrace.Dru lighted candles all over her gardenside outdoor Keeping Room at home and served Escargot, Tortellini, and fresh fruit dipped in Gruyere Fondue as a farewell calorie collection for her very dear friend EM Le Baron who returned to Portland and rain splashed highways and drizzle, all of which makes for the green greeness of the Pacific Northwest most all the year, and which we can match only in our early Spring. She wished she could return to the Village forever . . . and who knows maybe she will. A bright note from Los Laureles Lodge, who are introducing Louis Moral (rhymes with corall) and his wife Ruth, who come from Los Gatos, and who will be providing the Lodge with a most exciting quisine, inviting outside catering, banquets, large parties, etc., and announce their fall hours for the dining room: Lunch at 12 and Dinner at 7 Sunday, Monday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday . . . Closed Tuesday and Wednesday. Nice to have a great place to dine on an otherwise foodless Monday . . . here in the Village. Dru says that she will be open for dinner on Monday nights and Saturday and Sunday nights also at 6 . . . serving a casserole, or a great old fashioned soup, country style, or Turkey Supreme with shortbread at the Keeping Room starting October 11.

A sad note: we learn that Irene Baldwin is at Community Hospital in Monterey and will be there another five or six weeks . . . how about a card shower?

Who's To Know

All was quiet at the Carmel Valley Firehouse as a bunch of the men were very busy shoveling dirt, toting rocks, and readying a pig for a succulent resting place and perfect roasting underground for a barbecue to be held the next night. It was 4:15 a.m. At that moment a grass fire broke out on upper Laurel, and the Emergency phone rang. The first truck arrived on the scene within five minutes. The fire was under control in 15 minutes. The fire was extinguished in 30 minutes. Back to the "ranch" to finish the final touches on the pig department. So beautifully, and so smoothly has our Volunteer Fire Department set up their mode of action and reaction, we seldome think beyond how efficient and responsible it is without really peering behind scenes to KNOW what happens in the wee small hours of the night when an emergency bell rings with a frantic villager calling for help at the other end.

I always visualized some poor soul sitting by the phone in the Firehouse reading or playing Solataire waiting for it to ring at which time he would push the siren warning we know so well. Not so. When the emergency phone rings, it rings in each of four homes simultaneously: Fire Chief Collins; Don Laird, Fire Captain, Don Cummings, Asst. Chief; Don Weber, Asst. Chief.

One answers, then by remote control sounds the siren at the station which all of the four are able to do, simultaneously, keying the radios which each of the 28 Volunteer Firemen have in their homes, which opens up their monitor radios, so that all receive the location of the fire at the same time. If a man must pass the fire in order to get to the station, he, of course, waits at the site, or meets the trucks there, but otherwise, the engines we hear racing through the night moments after we hear the fire siren, are all bound for the Firehouse.

All of the trucks have radios. At the fire, the men directing the work have P.A. broadcasting apparatus, on the trucks which also operate as radio receivers, but what is needed are individual radios, pocket size, which can receive and send, for the six or eight men in charge to use. With brush fire where acres and acres must be covered, it is the only truly efficient method of keeping right on the movement of the situation and best coping with the control of it. These radios run in the neighborhood of $500.00 and cannot possibly come out of the allotted budget the department works on. It would seem a worthy cause if any of the Dlubs, or all of the, and I know all of the most active ones do contribute to the worthy Firehouse cause . . . but if they could perhaps think in terms of $100.00 as a contribution along with four others, making possible a pocket radio, then it might not seem such an impossible dream after all. It is a thought, and such little reward for the truly magnificent job these brave friends, fathers, husbands, and neighbors are doing for each and every one of us in this community.

Local Architects Honored For Outstanding Designs

CITATION WINNER — Pebble Beach, California, is the location of this cutom-built family house, a Citation winner in the American Institute of Architects Sunset Magazine Western Home Awards. The architects were Peters & Clayberg, Berkeley, for Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Aulik. The great feature of this house is the floor-level deck, wrapped around two sides of it. Inside the principal features are a sky-lit conversation pit and a stone fireplace.

ADAPTABLE UNIT — This merchant-built family house, located in Pebble Beach, California, has earned a Citation in the American Institute of Architects Sunset Magazine Western Home Awards. Architects were Brude, Shaw & Associates of Monterey, for Spyglass Development Associates. David A. Smith was the architect in charge. The basic design of this house is adaptable to units varying in size from 1400 to 2600 square feet. Living areas radiate off the entry, with a stairwell acting as a variable, verticle change between the living areas.

Forty-one houses, along with the architects responsible for their design, have been singled out as winners in the 1969-70 American Institute of Architects Sunset Magazine Western Home Awards.

Of these, five entries received top Honor Awards — one for a vacation house, one for a townhouse, two for custom-built family houses, and one for a group of subdivision houses.

Additionally, 11 entries received Merit Awards, 24 were granted Citations (a level of recognition new this year), and one received a Special Award for Prefabrication.

The editors of Sunset Magazine note that the winners present some highly innovative features. One mountain house has a motorized, disappearing metal skin; one desert house has a freestanding sun-trap wall. Several houses experiment with roof windows; and one Special Award winner is trucked to the site in pre-built units.

A jury comment: "What's impressive is the high quality of the entries. You'd only see this in the West"

The five Honor Awards went to these architects: Hall and Goodhue, A.I.A., Monterey; Campbell and Hoover; Sidney H. Hoover, Project Designer, San Francisco; Kahn, Kappe, Lotery, Architects/Planners, Santa Monica; Donald E. Olsen, A rchitect, A.I.A., Berkeley; Claude Oakland & Associates, Inc., San Francisco.

Citations were granted, among others, to Burde, Shaw & Associates, Architects, David A. Smith, Architect in Charge, Monterey, California.

Western Home Award winners are featured in the October issue of Sunset Magazine. Photographs and plans of the houses go on display in cities throughout the West, starting October.

The September issue of American Home carried a two page four-color spread on Spyglass 13 with editorial comment describing the stucco and concrete homes as "planted in land appropriate to the design."

HONORED TOWNHOUSE — This townhouse, situated in Carmel Valley has won an Honor Award in the American Institute of Architects Sunset Magazine Western Home Awards. The architects were Hall and Goodhue, A.I.A., of Monterey, for Burchfiel Meadows, Inc., of Carmel. The house is one of a group rising from the floor of the Carmel Valley, and is surrounded by golf course fairways. The jury was particularly impressed with the site planning and traffic arrangements. The units were designed to conform to the existing terrain, and to insure the preservation of native trees.

Weir Joins Carmel Realty

Robert A. Weir has recently joined the sales staff of the Carmel Realty Company in Carmel.

Weir is well known in California motor car dealer circles, as he has been associated with Fidelity Oldsmobile of Berkeley for the past 20 years. He started with this firm shortly after finishing four years of service with the U.S. Navy.

Starting as a salesman, Weir soon rose to sales manager, and eventually to president and majority stockholder of the Berkeley firm, which achieved an annual sales volume of $3 million.

With his wife and two teen-age sons, he moved to Carmel, intending mainly to pursue his hobbies of golf and fishing. However, he has become so enthusiastic about this area that he decided to participate more actively by joining the sales staff of Carmel Realty.

U.S. Air Force Captain John H. Harrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Harrison, Lazarro Drive. Carmel, is attending the Air University's Squadron Officer School at Maxwell AFB, Ala.

Captain Harrison will receive 14 weeks of instruction in communicative skills, leadership, international relations, and responsibilities that prepares junior officers for command-staff duties.

The captain, a 1957 graduate of George Washington High School, San Francisco, has an associate degree from the City College of San Francisco, and earned his B.A. degree at the University of California at Los Angeles. He was commissioned in 1963 through Officer Training School, Lackland AFB, Tex.

Seaman James W. Jaggers, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Jaggers and Airman Kenneth E. Haff, USN, son of Mrs. Neil Haff both of Carmel, are serving aboard the USS Ranger off the Southern California coast.

The ship recently participated in Operation Bell Express, a combined Navy-Marine exercise, preparing the units for conditions they will meet not only in Southeast Asia, but throughout the Western Pacific area.

(U.S. ARMY)

HOHUM, ANOTHER ONE — Sandra L. Pinkerton of Carmel receives another award from the Department of Army in recognition of her outstanding rating on her job as secretary in the office of the assistant chief of staff G-1 at the Army Combat Developments Command Experimentation Command, Ft. Ord. The presentation of this award was made by the G-1 himself, Lt. Col. Thomas V. O'Keefe. Mrs. Pinkerton has received other awards in the past, among them two for sustained superior performance. The first of these was received in Denver in 1961 where she worked before moving to this area; the second, also from CDCEC, in 1967. She has worked at CDCEC for 2½ years but has been in civil service for eight. She, Pinkerton, and their two-year-old son, Scott, reside on Dolores at Eleventh.

Second MPC Documentary

"Serengeti Shall Not Die," second documentary film in Monterey Peninsula College's monthly "Window on the World" series, will be screened in the MPC music hall Saturday, Oct. 11, at 8 and again at 9:45 p.m.

No tickets remain for the 8 o'clock showing or for season tickets for the balance of the 8'oclock showings in the series. However, both season tickets, at $5, and individual performance tickets, at $1 are available for 9:45 p.m. showings monthly through May, 1970.

Both types may be purchased afternoons in the college's community services office in the administration building on campus (telephone 375-9821, Ext. 335), and "Window on the World" brochures are available on request.

The film "Serengeti" is the result of the work of two dedicated photographers who offered their services to the Tanganyika government to film the vanishing herds of the famous Serengeti steppes to arrouse interest in preserving these wild creatures from extinction. Nature herself is the dramatist of this full-length, unrehearsed, true-life adventure feature.

Tree Inheritance Outlined To Preserve Carmel Forest

By GUNNAR NORBERG

Have you enjoyed the sight of some particularly magnificent tree in your neighborhood, or elsewhere in Carmel, which was located on someone's private property:

Have you then — sometime later — after the property had changed hands through inheritance — seen that favorite tree felled, simply as part of the unfeeling bull-dozing ordered by an absentee inheritor of the land where the fine tree stood, just to "clear the site" for new construction:

In a city such as Carmel where the people have decided through the years that they intentionally wished to live in an urban forest, this sort of blind site-clearing is particularly punishing and, in many cases, wholly unnecessary.

But just what could be done to save these particularly pleasing and impressive trees if they had grown to splendid maturity on private property?

For one thing, the owner could provide in his will that the lot where the great tree stood would be deeded to the city. But generally, this would deprive family heirs of an expected inheritance, and even an owner who was particularly fond, not only of the tree but of Carmel as an entirety, might not want to will his plot of land away from his proper heirs.

In some few cases, cities have tried to extract permit fees from private property owners who wanted to cut trees exceeding specified dimensions in girth or diameter. The fees have generally increased with the size of the tree.

Some may still recall a proposal first made in the Carmel City Council some 10 years ago which sought to deal with the saving of magnificent trees located on private property. This proposal suggested that local property owners should be given the opportunity to deed individual trees to the City without, at the same time, giving the City title to the lots on which the trees stood.

It would, of course, have been necessary for the City to have expressed its willingness to consider such individual-tree gifts before there would have been any point in asking owners to consider making the gifts.

Such willingness, of course, would not have meant that the City would have accepted any and all trees offered. Discrimination would have had to be exercised, and that would have had to be understood by everyone who might have become involved. But, once the City would have accepted a tree deeded to it, no heir would have had the right to have that tree cut down without first having sought and received the City's permission.

When this proposal was mentioned recently to City Attorney William Burleigh, he seemed to suggest that there was no formidable legal impediment to this idea of deeding individual trees to the City.

Also City Forester Robert Tate points out something which is reasonably obvious, and that is that there is as much, or more, of the Carmel urban forest situated on private property than there is on city-owned land.

If you would like to see this tree-saving effort, or any variation of it, tried in Carmel, mention it to a member of the City Council when you next meet one.

Rev. Pratt Dies

The Rev. William David Pratt, administrator of Carmel Valley Manor since it was established in 1960 died on Sept. 27. He was on a motor trip near Truckee with his wife, Louise, when he collapsed.

Native of Minot, N.D., he was 59. Graduate of Michigan State University, Pratt received his B.D. Degree in 1935 from the Chicago Theological Seminary and his D.D. degree in 1953 from the Pacific School of Religion.

His pastorates included Congregational churches in Illinois and California.

He traveled widely in the Middle East, Europe, and Mexico to study relief and reconstruction work for his denomination.

He is survived also by two daughters, Mrs. John Lipscomb of Berkeley, and Mrs. Kurt Fischer of Lancaster, Pa. and by a son, David C. Pratt of Manila, P.I.

Christian Science Bible Lesson

"Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read this Sunday in all Christian Science churches. The public is welcome to attend.

"And great multitudes came unto him, having with them those that were lame, blind, dumb, maimed, and many others, and cast them down at Jesus' feet; and he healed them." This passage from Matthew is included in the sermon. One of the correlative passages from the denominational textbook, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, is as follows: "Sickness, sin, and death, being inharmonious, do not originate in God nor belong to His government. His law, rightly understood, destroys them.

Services beginning at 11 A.M. and 5 P.M. will be held in 1st Church of Christ, Scientist, Carmel.

Thomas Paintings At Town House Through October

During the month of October at its Town House, Lincoln near 8th, the Carmel Foundation will show the paintings of Charles Thomas, for nineteen years a resident artist of Carmel.

Thomas is originally from Pampa, Tex. and first discovered Carmel when stationed at Fort Ord in 1942, 1945, and 1946. He returned here to study at the Carmel Institute with John and Pat Cunningham, and later with Ingerson and Dennison in Los Gatos.

His paintings have won first prizes at the State Fair in Sacramento and at the Sonora Mother Lode Art Show. He has had a one-man show at Gallery 9 in Berkeley.

Thomas is a member of the Society of Western Artists. He is also a member of the Carmel Art Association and has been its president three times.

He said, "The paintings at the Town House will be oils – still lifes and florals – somewhat conservative. I am not 'mod' or terribly

The public is invited to the show Monday through Friday from 10 to 5.

Swimming Class

Monterey Peninsula Unified School District now is offering an exercise and swim class for women. The adult school class meets Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the Monterey High School gymnasium. The fee is $3.00. The instructor is Roberta Macfarlane, and Carmel residents are invited.

For further information call the Monterey adult school office, 372-0320 after 6:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

Christian Science Radio Program

Unselfish love that includes everyone will be discussed on next Sunday's program of "The Bible Speaks to You" series. The subject of the discussion is "How Expansive Is Your Love?" and it may be heard over radio stations KGO at 7:15, KRML at 7:45 and KDON at 8:45.

MTHA Tells Heart Facts

The Heart Association has many pamphlets and sends out many news releases about diseases of the heart and circulation. The association's regional public education committee, headed by Mrs. Evelyn Logan of Salinas, is concerned that all the talk about illness may obscure the fact that the human heart is really rather sturdy – something of a work horse, in fact.

So Mrs. Logan's committee has sent out the following statement so people can see they don't need to live in fear of their heart suddenly giving out.

It beats an average of 70 times a minute. That adds up to 36 million beats a year and about two billion in 50 years. EAch time the heart makes a muscle it pushes out about half a cup of blood. In a half- century of relentless labor, the heart muscle pumps 300,000 tons – with a total expensiture of energy large enough to hoist a battleship out of the water.

An organ like that is not a pushover for any disease. the Heart Association says, "Take a little care and it'll last you a long, long time."

SOCIAL SECURITY AND YOU

by Raymond MacDonald

Q. While I was in diabetic shock, my son called an ambulance, and I was taken to the hospital. The claim for the ambulance charges was rejected. May I appeal this?

A. Technically, — an ambulance should be called by a doctor, and this is probably why payment was denied. However, if your doctor certifies that the ambulance was medically necessary, you may send his certification and the claim, marked "resubmittal," back to the California Blue Shield. If all other requirements have been met, 80% of the bill will be paid.

Q. Will Medicare pay my claim if I am treated by my son who is a doctor?

A. No. There is a ruling which excludes payment to a patient related to the provider of services by blood, marriage or adoption. This includes spouse, father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister. Also, people sharing a residence with the provider are excluded from payment. You'll have to find another doctor, make the payments yourself or have your son waive charges.

Q. I am receiving retirement benefits. I plan to move to New York, should I notify the Social Security Office and the post office.

A. If you move, you should notify both the Social Security office or the post office.

PADRE SPORTS

by Hal Gann

With the exception of one quarter, Carmel High's Varsity Football team shut out the powerful Haybalers on their home turf Friday evening, and outscored them, 6-0.

All the host team tallying came in the second stanza—first on a 22-yard field goal by Gary Littlejohn, and then on a two-yard touchdown by Mike Cembellin, Littlejohn adding the PAT, after Padre halfback Jimmy DeAmaral's fumble was recovered by David Ottmar to establish the drive on the Carmel 18.

Carmel got back in the ball game late in the third quarter when Halfback Rick Hall crashed over from the one after the TD was set up by a sensational 33-yard pass play from Quarterback Jim Conlan to Right End Pete Shaw. Shaw made a spectacular diving catch at the Hollister one. Conlan tried to hit DeAmaral for the extra points, but it was a big, moral victory for a much improved Carmel team, displaying a sterling defense in choking off a well-oiled Hollister T-Attack time after time, and a well-coordinated Padre team, the local entry receiving only one five-yard penalty.

Next Carmel Valley Broadcast is this Saturday at 4:30 p.m. over KRSA-FM (100.7 Mc), coverage of the 2:30 p.m. Palma game here. Junior Varsity action starts at noon.

Although three of Junior Conlan's passes were intercepted, he called a good game at quarterback, and while dropping back to throw, eluded would-be tacklers on several plays.

Also, the Carmel running game is beginning to show more wide-open football, with impressive end skirts and widespread pass patterns.

However, the name of the game again for the Padres was "Defense," with the best team effort on the part of Carmel in many a moon. The Haybalers, acclaimed as the best high school team of its own Mission Trail League and the MBL by the Santa Cruz Sentinel prior to the game, and averaging more than 30 points per contest, were stunned by the tenacious Carmel defense.

There is no singling out individuals on the Padre defense, as all performed exceptionally well.

Paced by Joe Carter's two touchdowns, Carmel's Junior Varsity came from behind to beat Hollister, 28-20. The Freshmen team was blanked by Hollister, 26-0.

Saturday's Junior Varsity tilt with Palma will commence at 12 noon at Bardarson Field.

MPC Is Shutout Victim For Second Straight Week

By Marc Hinchey

A shut out victim for the second straight game Monterey Peninsula College will seek to even its football record Saturday night. The Lobos journey to Solano to take on the Solano College Falcons.

Last week the Lobos dropped a 27-0 contest to DeAnza after losing to Ventura the previous week 21-0. MPC's lone win was a 22-2 season opening victory over West Hills.

Against DeAnza, MPC was close to its opponent statistically, but crucial mistakes and an ineffective offense once again proved the Lobos undoing.

DeAnza was only able to garner a 7-0 halftime advantage, but pushed over three touchdowns in the second half. The Dons' first score came in the opening period. Converted linebacker Rich Cummings pounded over from the Monterey four yard line and Rick Fulcher kicked the extra point to give the hosts a 7-0 lead.

MPC'S best effort of the first half came late in the second quarter. A 30 yard pass play from quarterback Dave Stewart to running back Mike Mitchem took the Lobos inside the DeAnza ten, but the drive was stalled by penalties and the tough Don defense.

DeAnza scored twice in the third frame. The first TD was another run by Cummings, this one from the Monterey two yard line. Fulcher's kick was perfect for a 14-0 advantage.

Gary Washington, shifty Don halfback, got DeAnza's third tally later in the quarter on a 2 yard jaunt. Again Fulcher made good on the PAT boot.

MPC was unable to mount a serious threat to the Dons throughout the third quarter, but came up with some brief moments of good play in the final stanza.

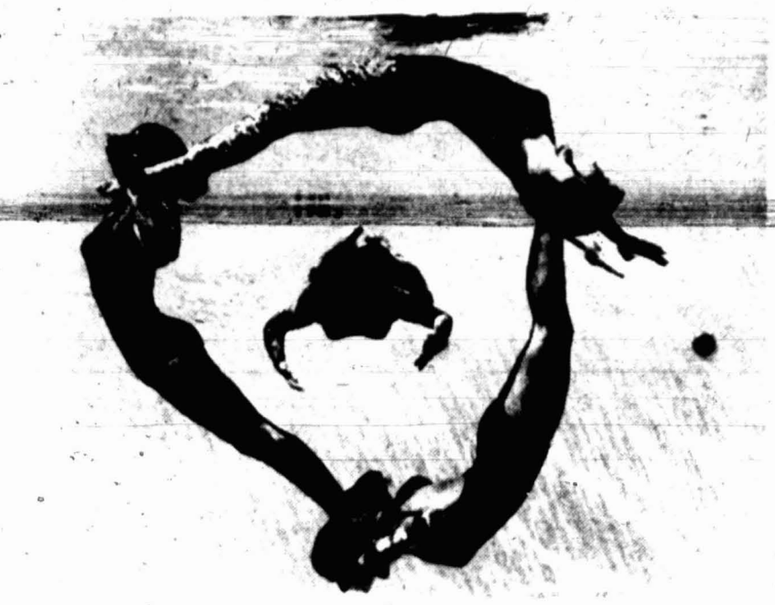
With new quarterback Dan Hoffman guiding them, the Lobos took advantage of some timely penalties on the Dons and a couple of first down passes to get down to the DeAnza 12. All was for naught however, as the home team's defensive unit again stiffened to repel the Lobos.

Don quarterback Jay Cruze lit up the scoreboard once more in the last period, passing to end Dyke Johnson for a 31 yard touchdown. The PAT kick was wide.

Solano should pose a solid threat to the Lobos. Last season the Falcons utilized the ball-toting talents of halfback Ralph Brown to bop the Lobos 20-0 at Monterey Peninsula College Stadium. With Brown back in the lineupe this year, the Falcons again look very tough and should fare well in their conference.

Baring injuries, Monterey's lineup should look the same as last week's. o offense probable starters include ends Bill Swift and Bill Stowers, tackles Ralph Serrano and John Bristol, guards Troy Spindler and John Napoli, center Chris Ingalls, halfvack Ray Dolor, fullback Brad Kight, flanker Jim Donovan and quarterback Dave Stewart. The defense will probably have ends Crosby Anderson and Paul Murphy, tackles Dennis Welch and Charley Smith, middle-guard Ken Goff, linebackers Sandy McFarland and Paul Paquin, halfbacks Alva Wright and Jim Bailey, and safeties Dan Hoffman and Dwight Greenwell.

Next week the Wolfpack returns to MPC Stadium for a 8 p.m. encounter with the Ohlone College Renegades. Ohlone won its first game last week after two losses. The game will open Coast Conference competition for both squads.



WATER BALLET — The Santa Clara Aquamaids, Senior National AAU Synchronized Swimming Champions, as well as winners of the Canadian Open Championships and the Japanese National Championships, will be the featured guest stars as the Cypress Swim Club presents its fifth annual fund-raising "Aqua-Spectacular' this weekend at Rancho del Monte Country Club in Carmel Valley. Performances will begin at 2:30 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday afternoons. All proceeds benefit the local non-profit Cypress Swim Club. The champions are, from top clockwise, Pam Albin, Kris Welshons, Carol Reynolds, and Terry Anderson, center.

National Swim Champs To Appear In Benefit Show

The Cypress Swim Club's fifth annual fund-raising "Aqua Spectacular" will be presented this weekend with two performances scheduled for Saturday and Sunday afternoons, Oct. 11 and 12 at Rancho del Monte Country Club in Carmel Valley.

The "Aqua-Spectacular," an exhibition of synchronized swimming champions of the past, the present, and the future, will feature performances by members of the Cypress Swim Club together with members of the Santa Clara Aquamaids' award-winning Senior National AAU Championship team, which currently holds the Canadian Open as well as the Japanese National title in addition to the US Championship.

Special guests include Kim Welshons, in her fourth appearance in the "Aqua-Spectacular." Miss Welshons is the reigning queen of the sport of synchronized swimming, having won three consecutive titles as Senior National AAU solo and figures champion.

She has won so many awards that her family has had to add a room to their Santa Clara home to house her trophies and medals.

Swimming with Miss Welshons will be her duet partner, Nancy Hines. Together these girls have won the Senior National AAU duet title three times. With their teammates they have won the Sr. National AAU team title four consecutive times.

Other members of the team are: Pam Albin, Terry Andersen, Kathy Bryant, Gail Johnson, Carol Reynolds, and Kris Welshons. The team will swim its current championship routine, "Champagne on Ice," an ice revue on water.

Another Aquamaid, Jackie Douglass, will be featured in a gymnastic routine on a surfboard, and also in a swimming duet with Donn Squire, coach of the Cypress Swim Club and undefeated Sr. National AAU men's solo champion, she will also appear in the "danse apache" with Del Neel, manager of the local club.

Another special guest will be Pam Lucido , Tahitian dancer, who has recently returned from an extensive tour of military bases in the Far East. Miss Lucido, reputed to be the best non-Tahitian expert in the art of Tahitian dancing.

Admission to the show, all proceeds of which benefit the local non-profit Cypress Swim Club, is $1.50 for adults, and 75¢ for children under sixteen.

Tickets may be purchased from any member of the Club or at the gate on the day of performance, which begins at 2:30 p.m. on both Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

With Bob Wood In Sacramento

I think most of us will agree that in our younger, formative-years education and the schools we attended were the dominant factors and most of our social life centered around the school and its activities.

The friends we made, the learning how to get along with each other, this was the principle part of growing up, and still is.

Our school and our fellow classmates made up the greater part of our small world the first 16 to 20 years of our normal life period.

Today a newspaper doesn't come off the press that doesn't contain some item concerning something about education. Experts tell us that throughout the United States three out of every five people in the average American family are somehow connected with our educational system. Either they have children attending elementary school, high school or college, or maybe they themselves are attending adult school or night school.

Maybe someone in the family is a teacher himself or the parents are connected with maintenance or operation, or the production of school books, far removed from the school itself.

No other single industry involves so many in California than does education. Our State budget is approximately $6.25 billion and the amount needed for our education is approximately 40% of this figure, or almost $2½ billion.

Recently I had the chance, along with two other freshmen Assemblymen, to take a field trip throughout the State of California. (Cheer up – you taxpayers didn't have to foot the bill on this one. A combination of legislative advocates picked up the bill, which wasn't too big because many of the facilities needed were donated.)

On the second evening we were invited to dinner at the home of Dr. Charles Hitch, president of all of the University of California campuses. In case you are a little haxy (I know I was) there are now 10 University of California campuses charged with educating more than 96,000 students in 1968-69, projected to more than 101,000 for this coming college year. State college campuses in California number 19, with an enrollment of approximately 225,000 students, and the doors of our junior colleges will be open to more than 600,000 students this coming year.

I am sure many of you do as I do and form mental images of people before you meet them. President Hitch was not at all like I had expected for a man leading the destiny of one of the largest and greatest Universities in the world. I found him to be physically a man of small stature, quiet and soft spoken, but a very sincere person.

Like any university president loyal to his school, President Hitch felt the State, which provides 1/3 of the total operating monies, should provide a larger budget for the school's ever increasing demands. Although President Hitch felt that the University needed more money, we explained to him, as elected representatives, that we had received letters from many people who felt that if the school administrators could not handle their own disciplinary problems in their own schools, John Q. Public, or the average citizen taxpayer, did not feel too happy towards the idea of putting additional tax dollars into the University budget system.

President Hitch felt (from my personal observation) that a reduction in school operating monies would only aggravate the campus situation and was not the answer to our campus problem.

However, we did both agree that the new legislative regulations passed by the 1969 legislature on campus unrest problems should give an administrator much better control over that small minority of radical, violent students and non-students than any prior regulation offered in the past for a college administrator.

The decision to use these new powers, however, still remains with the individual administrator himself. Twenty million people in the State of California, along with the majority of students who deserve and desire an education will be judging the decisions of these few men. May God give them strength to make good sound decisions that will result in a better America.

Enough for now.

Thrift Shop Fashion Show

Selected from the racks of merchandise at the Thrift Shop of the Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services in Seaside are garments to be modeled by members of MPVS at a Tea and Fashion Show at the new Holiday Inn, Monterey, on Wednesday, Oct. 15 from 2 to 4 p.m.

Members, prospective members and guests are invited to attend and requested to bring donations for the Shop.

Ranging from evening gowns to negligees, housecoats to suits and day time dresses, models will display some of the fashions of yesteryear as well as the latest in attire for the woman of today. Mrs. Ellis P. Egan will act as commentator.

Mrs. Joseph Richardson is Projects Chairman of MPVS, under whose general direction the tea is being arranged, and Mrs. J. B. Farrior is acting as chairman for the Fashion Show. Members of MPVS who will model are: Mesdames Archer H. Allen, Thurman H. Bane, Edwin C. Broome, Safa Cicin, Allan Craig, S.Y. Cutler, Arthur Dresser, Howard R. Dunham, Joe L. Farrow, C. Willis Fisher, J.B. Farrior, Howard Healey, J.A. Lucero, George H. Macy, Margaret Mann, Hatton Martin, Viola Mills, Frank Minerva, R.C. White and Miss Claire M. Kennedy. Mrs. Cicin is in charge of models for the Show.

Facials For Males? 'Yes' Says Connie Weisman

by Charles Strosnider

The proliferation of hirsute adornment in recent years has two possible connotations.

One may be that men are asserting their individuality and professing their masculinity – perhaps with a touch of rebellion against the "establishment form" of clean-shaven cheeks.

Another – and perchance more honest answer – could be that the male resents the signs of approaching age and over-indulged living.

By cloaking the evidence of dissipation and the infant signs of senility behind a beard, he paints himself a "Dorian Gray and hides the true picture in the depths of a mattress of hair – only to be revealed (shudder) by the stroke of a razor at some fateful day in the future.

Of course, there is the rugged type who glories in the sun-burned, weathered, out-of-door appearance – until he approaches, with the confident, conquering manner of the past, some young "bird" and gets the cold, disinterested but respectful brush-off reserved for what he considered "the older generation."

Man how that generation gap split wide – leaving him on the far side!

For those who would shuck the "Dorian Gray" facade and would again romp in the glistening coat of the colt rampant in a field of mini-skirted fillies, there is an answer!

Have you ever had a Facial: Not a session with your barber with the hot towels and vibrator massage bit - but a Facial?

Stop and think. When your scalp started getting sunburned and your hairline began reaching for the back of your neck, you spent a lot of time, money and worry trying to preserve your "part" of the past. But you didn't do anything about your face.

If you are now concerned enough to have worry-wrinkles further wrecking havoc on your face, prepare to be passed the punch line. . . .

See Connie Weisman – Carmel Rancho Shopping Center – 624-3233.

You are only as young as you feel – and look! And looking young can make you feel young.

Just see Connie!

Letter To The Editor

Editor
Carmel Pine Cone:

Between Aug. 6 and Sep. 4 I was in the audience at five Carmel City Council meetings in less than 30 days. I think that should be some kind of a record. If you can match this let us know.

I didn't happen to talk at any of these meetings, just enjoyed listening to the discussions. Three of these were budget sessions but I do like to hear the discussions about how my tax dollars are to be used.

I know we can sit at home and read about all civic meetings but I like to hear the discussions that lead to each decision. Also when a meeting lasts over two hours look how much the reporters have to cut out to keep the report short enough to publish. Then there has to be the other factor involved – what you read is that particular reporter's impression of what went on.

Sure isn't like having it firsthand as you follow the agenda yourself. I usually make a few notes of my own on my copy of the agenda.

Vets To Meet

Monterey Barracks of the Veterans of World War I will hold its regular monthly meeting on Saturday Oct. 11 in the Monterey Community Center, Dickman Street at Lighthouse, at 12 noon. The meeting will be preceded by a luncheon free to all members and to all Veterans of WWI who are cordially invited as our guests.

Old soldiers, we want you to join with us.

Our purpose is not to perpetuate wars for the soldier knows the horrors of war as he suffers and bears the wounds and the scars. As a long gone philosopher once said "Only the dead have seen the end of the war."

Our purpose is to foster peace and love of country.

THE COOL briskness in the air can only be matched by the keen edge it puts on the appetite – like the fragrance of home made chili sauce bubbling, or a good old fashioned beef pot au feu, or a wassail bowl full of split pea soup afloat with sausage rings, which are now on the Keeping Room menu. Also a taste teaser for breakfast is old time "Little Pig Scrapple," a hearty morsel augmented by Vermont maple syrup. Made up to take out also in little loaf pans!

On Oct. 11, 12 and 13, Saturday, Sunday and Monday p.m., Dru will be open for 6:00 p.m. dinner which will provide one sitting with a choice of casserole du jour (tamale pie, stuffed manicotti or supreme of turkey with shortcake biscuit) or a country kitchen soup du jour, or a cheese fondue when the pots arrive.

So come sit by the fire, at a candle-lit table and partake of our toothsome treats at the Keeping Room, with Dru and Minnie Haha the laughing dove, for breakfast, lunch and, only on weekends and Monday, dinner. No. 6 Pilot Road, Carmel Valley Village. 659-2512

October Is The Gypsy In Me

SO I LET MY DAY BEGIN AT INCREDIBLE PFEIFFER BEACH and our building site overlooking it and all the glories of the Sur Coast, noting that the price is only $38,500.

THEN ON TO GREET THE SUNRISE from the top of a 50-acre knoll overlooking the Bixby Bridge. Took pictures of the California ranch style housetouched with the morning sun and speculated on the great value of all this for only $160,000.

DOWN THE MOUNTAIN AND UP THE COAST, watching en route the ribbons of mists as they are enchanged by the sun's touch. Whales! Close in, too! How lucky we are to have several good building sites available in that area just now. JOG OFF UP THE PALO COLORADO CANYON. Birds singing like mad. Yes, our A-frame is in full sun now. (You've been hearing about this $59,00 house for some time and maybe it will be a little longer yet before the right person discovers it; one thing sure, it will be love at first sight.) Several little cabins available up in the Garrapatas. Ask Hank for details.

BACK TO THE COAST HIGHWAY – "Wonderful One" indeeed. Sun bright on October's magnificent surf. Stop for pictures at CASA DEL PUENTE and find an otter family in the cove below the house having a feast on abalone. Gave full credit to the person who selected this one-of-a-kind ocean front site 40 years ago, but also to the present owners who have made such a fabulous estate of the lovely Mediterranean house. (Wanted to take a swim in the inviting pool, but no time.) We're hoping to find someone who not only has the $350,000 price but who needs a showcase for his treasures for which this house is so ideal, as well as for just the sheer joy of living.

Stopped at the NEARLY NEW ENGLISH COUNTRY HOUSE to measure an area for a client. Hoping our buyer here has lots of books, loves music and views, and will be pleased to find a house with a master bedroom suite with a separate area for a den, sewing room, etc. Good if they're gourmets, too, for the big dining room with its bay windows to the sea will really please. Attractively priced at $69,500 and offers invited.

WANDERED UP THE MOUNTAIN to check our handsome home at the very top, overlooking the ocean and lovely Malpaso Canyon. This is the house for the really particular buyer only satisfied with the best in planning and construction in the $82,500 price range.

UP PETER PAN ROAD to the traditional home on its two park-like acres. Secluded from the road and neighbors, but never from the ocean view or the myriad fascinations of a redwood forest. $79,500 price tag. Immediate occupancy.

THE VIEW OF "SEA BIRD," as seen in the distance from the lookout point below the Highlands Inn, never ceases to be exciting. What a joy it would be to live in this wonderful new home overlooking the South shores of Point Lobos! Price is $179,000.

BACK IN CARMEL, STOPPED ON SCENIC DRIVE to see if the morning sun hits the lovely walled courtyard at "Geranium Gate." It not only does, but the early light slanting through the wrought iron gate is a special treat. Only $89,500 for this handsome home with its guest apartment opening into this courtyard.

Well, back to the office, but any of us will be delighted to re-do this tour with YOU at any time!

Reviews for Young Readers

By Allene Fremier

We have some new children's books written in Spanish only, no translations.

These are helpful for teachers with pupils who speak only Spanish, as well as for students beginning to learn this language.

In some cases, we have the same book written in English.

For instance, we have an easy reading book by Augusta Goldin called Straight Hair, Curly Hair. It is translated into Spanish, using the same illustrations and information, with the title Pelo Lacio, Pelo Rizo. Therefore, these two books could be used in conjunction with each other or separately.

Another simple Spanish book is La Fiesta, by Sesyle Joslin. It is all in Spanish, but with a vocabulary at the end of the book which contains all the words used.

Gaetano the Pheasant, a hunting fable by Guido Rocca, is not a new book, but it caught my eye.

It is the story of a pheasant who can think. He watched how hunters manage to shoot so many of his friends. He figures out how to avoid being shot and he tells the others.

But it is too hard for them to go against what they always do. Gaetano loves Donatella, but he cannot quite trust her, as she is an actress.

However, one day he finds her crying because she is so tired of hearing gunshots all the time. He tells her he knows of a place where Paola the duck was born, where they will be safe from hunters.

So Gaetano and Donatella go to an island called Belmondo, where they live a happy life.

Sometimes the other pheasants discuss whether Gaetano and the others had been right to leave the preserve. But they don't know what happened to them, so they can only guess. If they could have understood the talk of men they would have known of an island full of pheasants, very far away.

The illustrations are excellent and the story is charming. It is a good story for reading aloud at bedtime.

Consumer Power

By Yvonne Earnst

It is certainly not news to you that the price of food, and especially meat, is continuing its upward spiral. We are all faced with tthat sad and frsutrating fact every time we go into a grocery store.

What may be news to you, though, is that you can do something about it! Consumers need not feel completely helpless in the face of rising meat prices or any other rising prices. If we are willing to fight back by exercising our "consumer power," we can contribute a lot to slowing this spiral.

Earlier this year, "Supermarket News as reporting that consumers were continuing to buy the same cuts of meat, despite rising prices. And they just kept rising. Lately, that food retailers' weekly newspaper has been reporting that consumers are starting to change their buying habits – avoiding higher-priced cuts and cutting down on meat purchases in general. Meat boycotts have even erupted in some citites.

Everyone in the food industry is watching our reactions. They watch what cuts we choose at the meat counter, whether we choose "convience" or "staple" foods, whether we prefer frozen or canned foods, and what we are willing to pay for anything and everything.

The food industry watches, and then reacts to our choices. Have you ever thought of every food purchase you make as being a vote cast in favor of that product – or price? And, conversely, have you considered that every purchase you do not make is really a vote cast against that product or price?

Think about it.

When we continue to buy the same cuts of meat, regardless of the constamtly rising prices, we are saying, "We want it, no matter how much we have to pay for it. d since no resistance is met, there is no need felt in the food industry to try to lower prices.

However, when we switch from the more expensive to the cheaper cuts or even buy less meat than we did in the past, we are saying, "We won't pay that much money for meat."

That resistance is responsible for the first signs of lower pork and beef prices on the wholesale market. Increased supplies of meat are reaching the market in response to past demand, but consumer resistance to the present prices are dulling that demand. As a result, choice pork and beef are now selling several cents lower than the 17 year high reached last june.

It is difficult to find those lower prices at the supermarket meat counters as yet; and many people, including a few Congressmen, are wondering about the delay in passing this lower price on to the consumer.

Ways must be found to keep prices under control – not by underpaying the hog and cattle feeders, who are entitled to fair payment for their work – but by increasing efficiency in meat cutting and marketing methods, reducing waste, and educating consumers in how to get the most out of their meat purchases.

It won't be easy for either the food industry or the consumers to reach a solution to the problem. Americans, especially the younger generation of Americans, tend to think that the supply of meat on our tables always has been and always will be as good as it has been for the last ten or twenty years.

But those who were adults before the 1950's know otherwise. We did not always have a generous supply of meat at "reasonable" prices. Chicken once meant "Sunday dinner," and every main meal did not always feature meat.

In the coming weeks, we will be exploring here many ways to stretch our meat-buying dollars. We will discuss too, the various ways to maintain our protein intake while buying less meat.
